PERHAPS NONE OF THE PRESENT KERR JURORS WILL TRY THE CASE.

The Trini Not Likely to Be Begun Before the Middle of June-Judge Patterson Makes an Early Start This Morning, and Connsel Sets Out to Reject More Tales-men-The District-Attorney in Court Late.

Mr. Justice Patterson is determined to push the trial of Thomas B. Kerr for complicity in the bribery of the Aldermanic boodle combine of 1884. Contrary to custom, he opened court this morning at 10 o'clock, continuing till 12 o'clock, the beginning of the Saturday half holiday.

Kerr's counsel, ex-Judge Noah Davis, Bourke Cockran and John H. Bird, were promptly on hand, but the District-Attorney's office was unrepresented, which fact was the incentive for a ponderous joke from the bench and a motion for a nolle pros. from Mr. Bird, who is the funny man in the legal battle.

There were six jurors in the box at the ad journment last night, only one of whom-the last—was entirely acceptable to both pros-ecution and defense. The six are as follows: ecution and defense. The six are as follows:
Foreman, William D. Sadlier, publisher, 31 Barday street; John E. Hunter, photographer, 1492
Third avenue; William A. Wilson, hardware dealer, 30 East Fitneenth street; George R. Witte, Secretary of the Second Avenue German Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association; George M. Huntington, telegraph operator for the Richmond and Danville Hallroad Company; John T. Welch, Superinlendent of the Rudson River Ice Company.

The prosecution had objected to Messrs. Hunter and Witte, and the defense didn't want Messrs. Sadlier, Wilson and Hunting ton.

There were only a baker's dozen of sum

There were only a baker's dozen of summoned jurors in court to-day, but the lawyers began their work of examining candidates with an air which seemed to say plainly that these were enough for a day's work.

The difficulty of obtaining jurors is greater than in any of the former boodle trials, and it is predicted that this trial will be even longer than the five weeks' wrangle over Jacob Sharp.

Every citizen of New York who has average intelligence has read about and is well informed regarding the iniquities of the 1884 franchise giving up Broadway to Sharp and his friends.

Everybody knows that accomplices Full-graff and Duffy are to testify, and those w' want to avoid serving on the jury cand. so easily by admitting a prejudice against informers.

The prospect is that not a witness will be sworn in the actual trial before the middle of June, and the twelve men chosen for a jury will be lucky if they get off in time to celebrate the Fourth of July with their friends. And at any rate the jurors will be obliged to go through the usual formalities to renew their acquaintance with their families after their release.

After an hour and a half a seventh juror was accepted, Henry C. Le Fevre, real estate agent at 476 Second avenue. He seems an intelligent, fair-minded man.

The Brewers and the Men Carrying Their Fight as Hot as Ever.

The brewers' lockout continues to be the subject of discussion among the organized working people, and rumors and counterrumors are flying about.

One report had it to-day that many of the locked-out men are so discouraged over the prospect of ultimate success that they threaten to visit their old employers and make the best terms possible under the circumstances.

Another cause of excitement is the assertion made by Lawyer Untermyer that all the executive officers of the Central Labor Union, the Journeymen Brewers' Union and the Beer Drivers' Union will be arrested on the charge of conspiracy in attempting to injure the business of the Boss brewers by en-

Secretary Riege, of the Beer Drivers' Union, at the meeting of the members of that body in lower Clarendon Hall this forenoon said that there was no truth in the report. He had heard that three men had applied to Beadleston & Woerz for re-employment. The meeting of the inside brewerymen was a large one in upper Clarendon Hall. The Chairman said that there was no truth in the rumors of disaffection among the men who have remained out so long.

Several officers of the Brewery Workingmen's Union were at the Yorkville Court attending the examination of members of the union who are charged with assaulting alleged "scabs."

The work of evicting the families of the locked-out men of S. Liebmaun's Sons' brewery continues in Williamsburg. It is said 200 persons will have to find quarters other than those owned by that firm.

The brewers' lockout and the arbitration proceedings will be discussed at the Labor Lyceum, 145 Eighth street, to-morrow evening.

DIXON COWIE, HER UNCLE, IS ARRESTED AT MERIDEN, CONN.

He Was the Last Man Who Saw Her Alive and the Detectives Believe He Had s Reason for Muking Away with Her-After Months of Patient Work, Sufficient Evidence Is Secured-Cowie In Jail.

STERLING JUNCTION, Mass., May 5.—After months of active and almost hopeless efforts on the part of the State detectives to find evidence to warrant the arrest of the murderer or an accessory to the murder of Lillie Hoyle, of Webster, whose sudden departure from home last September, and the fluding of whose body, decomposed, in the old corncrib, in Oxford, three weeks later, startled the community, an arrest was made last night at Meriden, Conn. Detectives Shaw and Hayter arrested Dixon R. Cowie, who will be taken to Webster to-day for arraignment. It will be remembered that from the very first Dixon Cowie was thought to know much more about the disappearance and death of Lillie Hoyle, his niece, than he chose to tell, and the general opinion was that he was concerned somehow with Lillie's departure, but just how no one could tell, as there was no direct evidence to associate him with the Circumstantial evidence against him was very strong. By his own confession he was the last per-with Cowie, who stood, as he says, at the front corner of the house while Cowie went around to the side door to get his evening paper, and it was at that side door where he alleged he conversed with the dead girl two or three minutes.

Of that conversation Cowie has given several versions. Young Grimley, however, who stood within a few feet of the door, told the officers that he saw no one but Cowie, heard no talking, and that Cowie was gone only long enough to cover the distance, get his papers and return.

Then there was evidence to show that the uncle and girl had been intimate and that this manifestation of mutual regard had raised the ire of Mrs. Cowie, who is said to have looked with suspicion on the husband and niece. These suspicions were duly regarded by the officers, who knew that if Cowie was the father of Lillie Hoyle's unborn child he had a motive for the commission of a crime, and upon that theory Officers Shaw and Hayter have worked indefatigably, until they have accumulated enough evidence to warrant the arrest. warrant the arrest.

WILL THE DWYERS' PAMOUS JOCKEY BR ABLE TO RACE AGAIN?

Great Difficulty Met This Year by James McLaughlin in Training Down to Proper Weight—Unable to Make a Mount in the Ivy City Races—A Course of Turkish Baths-Is the Trouble with the Be

Will Jockey McLaughlin ever be able to make another mount on a racing course? This is a question which is troubling borse owners, Jimmy's friends and the little jockey nimself; and its solution will be of great interest to the general turf public. It is possible that this man, who has ridden to victory so many times on the fleetest-footed runners of the country, may never ride another a jockey lies in the fact that he is meeting with great difficulty in training down to proper weight this year—something very unusual with him.

During the winter he usually takes on feels rapidly, commonly adding 26 or 28 pounds to the 112 which he carries in saddle. This superfluous flesh he has heretofore readily rid himself of within a few days after beginning his spring practice, but this year it is said to have obstinately refused to leave him, despite his devotion to Turkish baths, diet, and exercise—that is, to leave in sufficient amount to bring him within weight.

Last year McLaughlin trained down from about one hundred and forty pounds in a short time so that he made his first mount at Washington in May at 115%, the fraction being over-weight. He had no difficulty in keeping his weight down during the season, though at the close he looked ghastly.

The winter was spent by him at the Clarendon Hotel, Brooklyn, and he weighed 125 pounds when he left there two weeks ago to go into training at the Dwyer Bros. stables.

He went to Washington, hoping to make his first mount in the 1vy City race. Day after day passed and he did not ride in a race, and announcement was made that he was ill. The difficulty was, it is alleged, his inability to get to racing weight.

Becognizing the fact that he could not mount at the Capitol City, McLaughlin went home to Brooklyn early this week to put himself in the hands of his physicians. He took up his residence at the Dwyer Bros. stables on the Brooklyn Jockey Club course, and has been making daily visits to Dr. A. L. Wood's Turkish baths, at 32 and 34 Clinton street, ever since.

An Evenne Wonld reporter attempted to find the popular jockey vesterday. At the Clarendon Hotel, where it was said he was stopping, the clerk declared that he was at Sheepshead Bay, and volunteered the remark that Jimmy was having a hard time of it trying to get off twenty pounds; that his efforts were making him ill, and he doubted it "Mac" would be able to ride at the Brooklyn Jockey Club's ra what McLaughlin weighed at present.

An expert in turf matters has advanced the idea, which is accepted by many, that McLaughlin's trouble is not one of superfluity of flesh, but a change in the character and weight of his bones, which neither baths, diet nor exercise can alter.

If this is so this hero of the turf will have to live on the memory of past victories won.

bers of athletic clubs will look after the scores.

James C. Kennedy, of the Sporting Times, will be the referee, and Arpold Pierce and Doc McDonough will be the judges.

City Surveyor Morrison finds the track eighteen inches from the "pole" to be ten inches more than a mile in eight laps, so that in a jaunt of 600 miles the ped will walk one mile and a quarter without credit.

There were more than one hundred applicants for admission to the race, but Manager Billy O'Brien stuck sturdily to the original plan and rejected all but the forty best men. Jimmie Albert will not start, but will look after his friend E. C. Moore, of Philadelphia, who might have been with him at the finish in the last race had he had proper care.

George Littlewood and George Cartwright, the Londoners, both count on taking $5,000 or so home to old England.

Panchot, the Buffalo postman, who was first in the last race until he went lame, is in to win, and "Lepper" Hughes, Dan Burns, Dan Herty, Gus Guerrero, Noremac, Peter Hegelman, "the racer," and Peter Golden are all confident.
